

VANESSA REDGRAVE AT 43TFF

The English actress is going to attend the Torino Film Festival to present the world premiere of her latest film, “The Estate”, and receive the “Stella della Mole” award

Turin, Thursday, October 16, 2025 – An undisputed leading figure in the international film and theater scene, Dame Vanessa Redgrave is going to attend the 43rd Torino Film Festival, that will take place from 21st to 29th November 2025. The multi-award-winning actress is set to present the world premiere of her latest film as a protagonist, The Estate, and is due to receive the Stella della Mole award for her outstanding contribution to cinematographic art.

Dame Vanessa Redgrave built a career of extraordinary intensity and artistic consistency, working with a few of the most important worldwide cinema directors, such as Michelangelo Antonioni, James Ivory, Joe Wright and many others. Winner of numerous awards, including an Oscar (for Best Supporting Actress for the film Giulia, from 1977, directed by Fred Zinnemann), two Golden Globes, one Tony Award, one Primetime Emmy Award and one Olivier Award – besides the Golden Lion for Lifetime Achievement at the 75th Venice Film Festival – Redgrave has always been an actress portraying deep and complex roles, as well as an artist committed to civil and humanitarian causes.

The Estate brings together on screen the actress and her husband Franco Nero in a thriller directed by their son Carlo Gabriel Nero. At the heart of the story, an aristocratic family must save their country house from debts and disturbing apparitions.

Torino Film Festival’s director, Giulio Base, stated: “When you have been nominated for an Oscar six times, you are no longer just one of the greatest actresses in the world: you become a legend. And when one of those nominations turns into an Oscar, your voice moves like a wave, endlessly breaking and rising again. Vanessa Redgrave is a theater and cinema icon, as well as a committed activist. Honoring her with the Stella della Mole means celebrating a living icon who continues to shape our imagination”.

Stella della Mole is the cinematographic award given to leading figures from international cinema who have contributed significantly to the world of the seventh art. It’s a celebration of arthouse cinema and artistic creativity that honors anyone who has left an unforgettable mark on a worldwide cinematography panorama.

The Torino Film Festival is powered by the Museo Nazionale del Cinema di Torino and it is carried out with the contribution of the Ministero della Cultura - Direzione Generale Cinema e
